EUA ANNOUNCES PROMOTION OF RICH TENNESSEN TO EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

MILWAUKEE — Eppstein Uhen Architects (EUA) is pleased to announce that Rich Tennesen has been promoted to Executive Vice President of the firm. In this new role Rich will have increased responsibilities in personnel, strategy and finance, in addition to his responsibilities as a client executive and leader of the firm's business development efforts.

In his role as Client Executive, Rich has worked with clients in every market served by EUA, including Harley-Davidson Motor Company, the State of Wisconsin, Franciscan Sisters of Chicago, Edgerton Hospital, GE Healthcare, Marquette University and many area school districts. He is also very active serving the Milwaukee community, and currently serves on the executive Board of the Zoological Society of Milwaukee, the board of the Betty Brinn Children's Museum, the board of the Eppstein Uhen Foundation and the corporate advisory Board of the Thurgood Marshall Scholarship Fund. Prior community involvement included serving on the Boards of the Pabst Mansion, the Building Owners and Managers Association, and the Milwaukee Workforce Development Board.

Rich has been an officer of the company since joining EUA in 1998, and he became a shareholder in 2000. His experience at EUA and background in construction management gives Rich a well-rounded perspective on issues and opportunities facing the design industry.

"Rich has the right stuff; that unique combination of talent and good sense," EUA President Greg Uhen said. "He has played a significant role in our company's success over the past 10 years, and will play an even greater role in our future."

Clients and business leaders have recognized Rich's contribution to the firm as well.

"Eppstein Uhen Architects has made a significant impact on the face of this region through their work," Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce President Tim Sheehy said. "That impact comes from the bright, creative, and talented team at EUA. And our congratulations go out to one of the leading members of this team, Rich Tennesen, in recognition of his promotion to Executive Vice President."
